CIVIC FORCES CONTINUE THEIR DRIVE TO QUALIFY VOTERS

Military Committee Recesses After A Sharp Clash

FOLSE CONSTRUES HILL'S STATEMENT AS A 'REFLECTION'

Alabamian's Question Offends Manager Mississippi Board

HILL EXPLAINS HIS REMARKS

Power Distribution Is Basis Of Outbreak At Hearing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)

—Recess of the house military committee considering Muscle Shoals bids was forced today by a verbal clash between Representative Hill, democrat, Alabama, and L. J. Folse, testifying for Mississippi interests.

Folse construed a statement by Hill as an implication that he was lobbying for the Associated Power companies' bid.

Folse, who is manager of the Mississippi state board of development, said his organization opposed any bid that did not provide for distribution of surplus power at Muscle Shoals and added that the Mississippi Power company is a member of the organization and paid $3,000 annually toward its expense.

"O, you are connected with the power company?" Hill interjected. "Yes and I'm not ashamed of it. I am proud of it," Folse exclaimed, adding that his connection was solely that of manager of an organization which included the power company in a membership of more than 3,000.

"I want to say to you," Folse shouted at Hill, "that no power company can pay me to lie to this committee. I resent the implication that I am not speaking solely for the interests of the people of Mississippi."

Confusion gripped the committee room as several members sought recognition in an effort to defend Hill while others assured Folse that the Alabamian had meant no offense.

Hill, who had opposed the Associated Power companies' bid, was given the floor and he explained that he had meant no insinuation.

Folse accepted the statement, but when he sought to continue his testimony, Representative Wright, democrat, Georgia, suggested the committee recess "until the gentleman cools off, he seems quite hot up."

The Mississippian who had said that the people of this state opposed any bid for Muscle Shoals that did not provide for distribution of surplus power, declared electrical energy was necessary to free Mississippi from "economic slavery."

Additional power, he said, would bring new industries to the state and help solve the farm problem.

Speakers for Tennessee interests, who are opposed to the Madden bill, were called for the afternoon session, at which time the committee planned to adjourn the hearings.

Many Delinquents Fail To Assess

Many persons in Morgan county still have not made their property assessments, according to H. O. Troup, tax assessor. The tax officials pointed out today that the 10 per cent penalty is effective on next Monday morning, the penalty being attached on the first Monday in February. Mr. Troup urged that county citizens take advantage of the remaining days and make assessments, thereby preventing penalty and saving much useless work upon tax officials.

TIME EXTENDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Time of commencement and completion of a bridge to be built from Cedar Point, Ala., to Dauphin island would be extended to September 1, 1928 and September 1, 1930 respectively, under the terms of a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Underwood, democrat, Alabama.

"There's Daddy! There's Peaches!"

Every vantage point within the courthouse at White Plains, N. Y., was occupied by persons endeavoring to get a glimpse of Edward W. (Daddy) Browning and Frances (Peaches) Browning entering court for their separation suit.

CANNING PLANT MEETING IS SET

Business Men Gather Tuesday Evening With J. C. C.

Business men of the Twin Cities will be expected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to attend the conference Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A., when the feasibility of establishment of a canning factory will be discussed. Farmers who might be interested in the project also will be accorded a cordial welcome.

J. C. Ford, Morgan county farm agent, will deliver one of the principal addresses and he will have present one or more additional farm experts to aid in formulation of plans, should it be decided that a canning plant here would be a paying proposition for all concerned.

Unique Case Of Polls Payment

The Hartselle correspondent of the Daily today reported an unusual case in payment of poll tax at that point, the case of a man, born in 1870 who had never paid a poll tax.

It is stated that at the subsidiary office at Hartselle, under the direction of M. D. Wiggins, a force of four men were kept busy, many taxes being paid after nine o'clock Saturday night.

Old Fashioned Political Day Now Recalled

The old fashioned way in political battle is being recalled at Hartselle, according to reports received here regarding the interest Hartselle citizens, men and women, are taking in getting out the qualified and unqualified voters to stir interest in the courthouse removal campaign.

Saturday, hot coffee and free lunch was served all day in a downtown vacant store, by women of the courthouse removal committee. A vacant building on Main street was used by the ladies in creating good will among Saturday visitors.

Music was rendered throughout the day and much interest was displayed by qualified and unqualified voters.

HEALTH METHODS ATTRACT NUMBERS

Foreign Physicians Among Students At Capital

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Twelve foreign countries and eleven states were represented among the physicians sent here during 1926 to take special study at the International Health board training station attached to the Alabama Health department, Dr. W. S. Welch, director, announced today.

The group included 44 foreign visitors, 29 sent here for training by health officers of different states and also four Harvard students. Six physicians assigned to other posts by the board were also sent here for training, he said.

Special staff members of the board assigned for work here numbered 16.

The countries represented were Brazil, the United States of Columbia, Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Austria, Norway, Canada, Nicaragua, Spain, Japan and Porto Rico.

The states represented were California, Florida, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The foreign visitors came here largely because they found conditions resembling those of their own countries being treated in this state, said Dr. Welch, and included some of the outstanding health officers of the various nations.

Dr. Peter M. Holst, of Norway, and Dr. Marius Kaiser, of Austria, who were among the visitors, are epidemiologists for their respective countries, he said.

Spight Recovers At Benevolent

Encouraging reports from the bedside of W. R. Spight, beloved citizen of these cities, today at Benevolent hospital. Mr. Spight is described as doing fine. He was operated on Saturday night a week ago, following a sudden attack of appendicitis. Hospital attendants did not know when Mr. Spight could be removed to his home.

PEACHES' DIARY IS NOT PERMITTED IN COURT BY JUSTICE

Three Letters About Poker Party Also Are Ruled Out

PAST LIVES IS CLOSED BOOK

Pre-Marital Events Not Vital To Case Seeger Decides

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 31.—(AP)—When trial of the Browning separation suit was resumed after the noon recess today, the first "boy friend" of the trial was put on the stand and called a liar in open court by Mrs. Frances Heenan Browning, who burst into tears and charged perjury.

After telling of his acquaintance with Mrs. Browning, before her marriage, James Nixon, of Brooklyn, the young man, told of a telephone conversation between him and Mrs. Browning after they both married.

"Is this the young man," he was asked by an attorney.

"Yes," he said nervously.

"He lies," cried Mrs. Browning.

The court rapped for order.

Mrs. Browning sobbed convulsively.

"I never saw the man before in my life," she screamed.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The diary kept by Mrs. Frances Peaches Heenan Browning, prior to her marriage, was ruled out as evidence by Supreme Court Justice Seeger when the trial of Edward Browning's separation suit against his girl wife re-opened here today.

The diary was said by Browning's attorneys to have contained the names of several "boy friends" of the young wife before marriage.

Three letters, identified Wednesday by Mrs. Browning as having been written to girl friends also were ruled out by Justice Seeger.

"I don't think it will help me very much," he said, "to go into the lives of either of these persons before their marriage. I think I can decide this case on the basis of actions during the marriage."

The letters, counsel for Browning said, referred to a poker party attended by the young woman before she became the real estate man's wife.

The largest crowd that has thus far turned out to get a glimpse of the principals in the trial packed the White Plains courthouse today.

Interest seemed centered on Browning, who arrived at the courthouse shortly before 10 o'clock and bowed and smiled his way through the crowd. Mrs. Browning arrived shortly afterward.

Among the witnesses in the courtroom was Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain choir singer in the Hall-Mills murder trial at Somerville, N. J. She is expected to testify for the Browning side of the suit.

Before noon six witnesses had been called, four of whom took up the allegation that Mr. Brown-

The trial is expected to continue tomorrow.

SIX STILLS IN ONE CAPTURE; PARADE BLOCKS TRAFFIC LANE

Six stills in one capture, loaded on a truck, a carload of deputies, Sheriff Davis and one prisoner, blocking of traffic lanes along Second avenue, was sufficient to cause quite a curious crowd to gather Saturday mid-afternoon. Sheriff Davis halted on the avenue long enough to let the curious see just what half a dozen wildcat stills looked like, and, incidentally, long enough to bring J. N. Hendrix, chief-of-police, hurrying across the street to untie the traffic knots.

Sheriff Davis and Deputies Wiloughby, West and Turner had been raiding in the district east of Falkville, capturing the "nest" late during the morning. The still

CONTEMPT CASE IS THREATENED

Attorney Claims His Relation With Star Is Privileged

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(AP)

—Lloyd Wright, attorney for Charley Chaplin, today was cast for an important role in the film comedian's domestic drama of real life as counsel for Lita Grey. Chaplin demanded a "close up view" of the actor's legal representative.

Attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin sought to learn what, if anything, Wright knows of the comedian's financial affairs. They also want to know the status of Wright's employment by Chaplin in the divorce action brought by the actor's 18-year-old wife.

Unable, so far, to obtain answers to their set of 200 questions, propounded to Wright in the form of a deposition, Mrs. Chaplin's counsel threatened to bring contempt proceedings. Wright, in refusing to answer, maintained that his relations with Chaplin are that of counsel and client and, as such, are privileged.

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys contend that Wright is violating the court order calling for a deposition.

Wright also is resisting another attempt to draw him into the case. He has been named as one of the defendants in Mrs. Chaplin's divorce complaint. In a demurrer filed last week Wright contends he has no interest in the Chaplin property and no grounds exist for an action against him.

Little Girls Give Toward Building

Ten little girls, students in the Sunday school class of Mrs. E. N. Hart, Westminster Presbyterian class, went their elders one better Sunday when they placed the first contribution for the building of a Sunday school structure at that church. The girls gave the sum of one dollar each.

Plans for financing the building will be laid at a meeting on February 8 when a banquet is scheduled.

Norwood Returns To His Old Home

George W. Norwood, former councilman of the city of Albany, but later connected with the Commonwealth Life Insurance company as district manager, with headquarters at Chattanooga, Tenn., has returned to his old home on East Grant street. Mr. Norwood was asked for the transfer and will now serve his company from this location, as manager of the Albany-Decatur district. Many friends received the news of their return with pleasure.

Bridge Will Be Open In Week

The Bee Line bridge, this side of Flint crossing, probably will be open within the coming week, according to word received here today. The concrete in the structure was poured two weeks ago and is about set so as to allow the passage of vehicles. Heavy trucks cannot pass over the new surface. The bridge has been made 24 feet wide.

PAYING FEES

Quite a few are paying their second term incidental fees, according to Henry Hartung, city clerk. Others, declared Mr. Hartung, are paying their first term tax. Mr. Hartung pointed out that all incidental fee payments must be made at the city hall.

GOVERNOR GOES BACK TO CAPITAL. CITIES A WAIT NEWS OF MERGER BILL

Legislature Will Be Convened On Tuesday; Commission Bill To Go Before Senate

With Governor Bibb Graves back in the state capital, Albany-Decatur and Fairview citizens today awaited word from the capital city regarding the final step to insure passage of the Albany-Decatur-Fairview merger bill. The bill has passed both house and senate and now awaits the signature of the governor.

Much interest is likewise manifested in the fate of the commission bill, companion bill to the consolidation measure which now lies at the door of Senate legislation, having previously passed the house.

The commission bill authorized Governor Graves to appoint three commissioners as a governing body for the merged city of Decatur. Morgan county legislators Patterson and Burleson today was preparing to resume their duties after a week-end spent in their respective cities, Albany-Decatur and Hartselle.

The merger bill was passed several days ago, going through house and senate without any particular opposition, but when the governor's signature may be affixed to the bill is not known here.

OHIO JAILS 100 JUSTICES PEACE

Graft Charges Are Placed Against Petty Officers

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 31.—(INS)—A plethora of bootleggers, always agreeable to being "shaken down" for normal sums in order to operate without molestation, has resulted in more than 100 justices of the peace and their constables, being indicted by Federal or state juries during the past 60 days.

In Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) alone, 38 of these peace officers or their aides were indicted recently in a drive against corruption staged by United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein. They were accused of having staged raids, pocketed the fines and then sold the evidence and equipment back to other bootleggers protected by the conspiracy.

Two of the ringleaders recently pleaded guilty and smiled when they were sentenced to less than two years. They are said to have amassed fortunes running into six figures.

Bernstein predicts that a February grand jury will indict at least a dozen more justices in this and surrounding counties.

Meanwhile bills are being considered by the general assembly at Columbus to curb the powers of justices of the peace. These acts would limit their activities considerably, but, according to many legal authorities, would not remove the cause of temptation—the fee system.

Judge Carl V. Weygandt, of Cleveland, recently declared that the custom of paying judge, jury and attaches with fees, as is done in Ohio justices' courts, struck at the very foundation of justice. A prisoner, he declared, had not the slightest chance of acquittal.

Armed with this authority it was simple for the corrupt justices to "sit" at their telephones; inform bootleggers to "come in or be dragged in," and then stage a trial which was a mockery, the fee being pocketed. No records were made of the cases. It was at this juncture that the Federal government stepped in and took a hand.

MEANS TALKS ROADS

A. A. Means, Albany route 3 grower, today spoke briefly of the condition of roads in the county, declaring that at most any point in the county where travelers are forced to get off rock bed roads that getting through thoroughfares is a problem. Mr. Means was in the cities on business.

Wants Ad Out, Too Many Calls Made For Home

"Mr. Shelton, take that ad out of the paper, 55 minutes after the paper was published the house was rented and I have had from 10 to 12 applicants this morning," said C. J. Euteneuer, Albany resident, the morning after he had invested fifty cents for a "want ad" in the classified columns of the Daily.

Mr. Euteneuer's plea is taken as an indication of the demand here for homes and apartments as well as furnished and unfurnished rooms in individual homes.

The effectiveness in using the little ads, which cost proportionately less and produce more, is illustrated every day through users of the columns who have learned the value in letting others know where they may find what they wish to purchase or rent.

HOUSE NEEDS TO SPEED UP WORK

Senate Getting Ahead With Transaction Of Business

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 31.—(AP)—With the reconvening of the Alabama legislature tomorrow, the house of representatives is faced with the necessity of "speeding up" if it is to keep pace with the senate.

At the time of recess Friday, all matters before the senate had been disposed of, while more than 200 still are pending before the house.

Both houses will resume work Tuesday afternoon, the senate at two p. m. and the house at 2:30. In the house the fight on the two anti-convict lease bills, advocated by Lieutenant Governor Davis, are expected to overshadow all other legislation this week.

Probably the most interesting bill before the senate will be the measure placing all bus lines under the jurisdiction of the Alabama public service commission.

Two Positions Accepted Here

T. A. Edmundson, formerly of Cullman, has accepted a position in the office of Mayor B. L. Malone, local realtor. Mr. Harwell, formerly of Athens, also has accepted a position with the agency as a real estate salesman.

R. P. Sutton Gets An Unusual Upset

Thrown upon his head from a seat in his buggy, was the unusual upset of R. P. Sutton, Trinity, Rt. 1 resident today when his buggy collided with a runaway team of mules, the latter said to be the property of W. H. Leslie, Lime-stone county farmer. The mules, hauling a load of hay, suddenly became frightened on west Moulton street and made westward. The collision is understood to have occurred near the intersection of Moulton street and the Danville road.

Alligators Are Received Locally

Shades of great reptiles, alligators now form a portion of the parcel post load at Albany post-office. Two small alligators from Florida farms, directed for delivery to H. H. Lawrence and C. E. Malone, offered a new experience for parcel post workers today. Each package was marked "One Baby."

Activity On The Upgrade As Time Limit Is Nearer

Situation Is Intense As Workers Make The Last Call

ROUNTREE URGES ACTION AT ONCE

Over Hundred Men And Women Talk Of Campaign

Civic forces in Albany-Decatur redoubled efforts today to have people in the cities and in the county qualify themselves for voting. The various forces raced against time with the limit on payment of polls placed on Tuesday night at midnight.

Committees arranged today to have men at the Morgan County National Bank and Tennessee Valley Bank tonight to receive poll payments, while the tax offices at the courthouse will remain open, as Tax Collector J. H. Hill expressed it, "as long as they come."

The tax office and two of the four banks in the cities will remain open Tuesday night until midnight accepting the last minute payments.

More than 100 men and women of these cities gathered this morning at Ittana Hall to discuss the situation and hear reports from various canvassing committees. Charles T. Rountree presided at the meeting and urged immediate action from among those present in returning to the job of canvassing, ascertaining if unqualified voters have as yet qualified themselves.

Committees of business men as well as committees from various civic and fraternal organizations again took the field to give a last effort to bringing people to understand the need for qualifying themselves in the rights of citizenship.

Tax Collector Hill rather doubted today that reports of taxes paid along with the number of qualified voters could be known before Wednesday, perhaps not until later in the week.

Mr. Hill pointed out that it is not necessary for the reports from the Hartselle subsidiary tax payment station to be in the courthouse by midnight of February 1.

Numbers of people from the rural sections were qualifying themselves at the courthouse today, but there seemed a scarcity of townspeople who are taking advantage of the last few hours to obtain the right to citizenship.

Tax Collector Hill added that all tax paid in Morgan county is returned to this county for the upkeep of the schools. No charge is attached to the handling of the fund through the state department, that department merely auditing the report. Every cent of tax paid now will go toward the improvement of county school conditions.

SUPREME LODGE DIRECTS ACTION

Officers are Installed
By Hermoine No.
16, Knights

The international exaltation program announced recently by officers of the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias, will, in a large measure, direct the activities of Hermoine Lodge No. 16, according to Chancellor Commander W. M. Bailey who was recently installed with eight other officers of the lodge to direct the work of the Pythian fraternity in this city during the year. The program, includes among other activities a definite plan to increase the social features, quicken interest in community service and to make a stronger appeal to worthy citizens to become members of the order. The lodge has set as a mark in the increase of its membership under the general plan announced by the Supreme Lodge to secure a twenty percent net gain during the year.

The following officers have been installed and will direct the lodge in the Supreme Lodge program: Chancellor Commander, W. M. Bailey; Vice Chancellor, E. D. Bailey, Jr.; Master of Finance, B. F. Graves; Master at Arms, H. E. Thornton, Jr.; Keeper of Records and Seal, B. F. Graves; Master of Works, J. D. Garvin; Prelate, W. L. Morris; Outer Guard, L. H. Orr; Inner Guard, S. D. Armstrong.

PERCENTAGE RAISED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—Forty per cent, instead of 20 per cent of the alien property held by the American government, would be retained for the settlement of claims of American nationals against Germany, under an amendment to the alien property return bill, approved today by the senate finance committee.

Romance Problems of Real People

Analysed by ANNE JORDAN.

WHEN Henry S. Thorne advertised that, his wife having left him, he would not be responsible for her debts, the wife in question, not to be outdone, advertised that she likewise was not responsible for any debts contracted by him. Which sounds like the last lap in the staccato duet voiced by the Thornes, Helen and Henry.

The Thornes were married January a year ago, and went for a honeymoon trip to Southern seas. Their connubial bliss was blighted from the start with bickerings. Mrs. Thorne is quoted as saying: "The whole ship knew of our quarrels." Two months later they separated, were reconciled, and separated again. And now—they are advertising that they are not liable for each other's charge accounts.

So many young couples start their married life snapping and snarling like a pair of Kilkenny cats. They will walk straight into a fuss just for the kick they get out of kissing and making up. They will tell you right off the bat, "I'm not taking a thing off that bird, see? There'll be no bossing me!" And at the first sign of command, whether liped or growled, there's a free-for-all, while they tell each other where to head in. Then come the tears, and the glorious forgiving of each other, calling themselves awful names just to hear them contradicted—peace!

But the pipe of peace, for all its drugging sweetness, is as dangerously habit-forming as the opium pipe. You get so you like the making up so much you don't try to steer clear of troubled waters, and after a while, like most habits, the pipe of peace loses its stimulus. One of you will get so you don't care whether you make up or not. Tears are shed, and the shoulder that used to be a blotter merely shrugs as it bunches away.

This tit-for-tat business in matrimony doesn't get you anywhere. It's the world's worst form of entertainment. And it's not so hard to keep from quarreling if you'll just brace yourself still like you do in the dentist's chair, when you see the irritating drill approaching. Just use a little will power, don't quarrel back, let it be a one-sided affair one time.

Really, there's nothing on earth so funny as a person quarreling when he can't get a sparring partner. Let 'em run down, then tell 'em something sweet after they are all through, and it's as easy as leading a tame horse with a lump of sugar. You'll have 'em weeping because you're so superior. ## Final Date Is Set For Renewing Government Insurance Policies

The Last Call for Reinstatement and Conversion of Government Insurance has been issued and Taps will be sounded at the hour of 12 o'clock, midnight, July 2, 1927, for all lapsed policies not reinstated and converted by that date.

In order that all veterans of the World War may be advised of their rights and privileges, the U. S. Veterans Bureau is conducting an intensive campaign through the newspapers, service organizations, and the various avenues for disseminating information, beginning January 31 and continuing to July 2, 1927.

During the World War the U. S. Government insured, at a very low rate, nearly five million men and women in the armed forces of the country. To date less than one tenth of this number are insured, as many veterans do not seem to have had knowledge of the privilege of continuing their insurance and for one reason or another have permitted their insurance to lapse.

Under the terms providing for the reinstatement of lapsed War Term Insurance, good health conditions will permit of reinstatement upon the paying of two monthly premiums and for those whose service contracted disabilities render them otherwise not insurable, and who are not permanently and totally disabled, providing tion is made for reinstatement upon the payment of premiums with interest at 5 per cent for the period of lapse. Even the payment of these back premiums may be temporarily waived where a veteran is not financially able to meet the requirements.

The Government is offering six permanent forms of insurance and also a Five Year Term Policy, which may be changed to one of the six permanent forms at any time during the five year term. All of these policies have loan and cash value at the end of one year, automatic extension, paid up insurance benefits, total and permanent disability allowance, and pay dividends.

Full details may be secured from the U. S. Veterans Bureau, Old Post Office Building, Birmingham, Alabama, and blanks necessary for reinstatement and conversion will be sent upon request.

Tit for Tat

Peaches' Diary Is Not Permitted In Court By Justice

ing had suggested to Marian Tussey, girl friend of Mrs. Browning, that she "try to recollect something adverse to Mrs. Browning" prior to her marriage.

Miss Tussey, herself, testified that Browning had asked her if she had not seen Mrs. Browning, before her marriage, act improperly. She said she had denied that she had seen Peaches.

Bondy Croner, his wife, and a housemaid, who lives at his home in New York, testified of a visit Mr. Browning had paid to the Croner place, where Croner is landlord for the apartment in which Miss Tussey resides.

Croner admitted he had called Browning voluntarily, after he had learned that Miss Tussey knew Mrs. Browning, but he denied he had received any money for his information.

His wife said a man who accompanied Mr. Browning did all the talking but that Mr. Browning "didn't open his mouth." The housemaid said she was not in the room and heard nothing.

Two newspaper men, employed by a newspaper syndicate, were called to testify to steps taken to obtain two feature series from Mrs. Browning. They were a so-called "Honeymoon Diary" and the story "Why I Left Daddy Browning."

Leslie Fullenweider admitted that the honeymoon diary had been written in the syndicate office and only "corrected" by Mrs. Browning and her mother, Mrs. Heenan.

Fullenweider was followed by his associate, William Waddell, who corroborated details of the transaction.

Respected Woman Called By Death

..GOLDEN ROADS..

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Gay Moore and her cousin Christine Noe, who have been raised together by Gay's parents, affectionately called Jamie and Mary, are employed in the Wall Street house of Johnstone Baird, Christine as telephone operator and Fay as a typist. Christine has determined on making a rich marriage and sees opportunity knocking on her door in the person of Roger Pennington, chum of Stanley Baird. She wants Gay to leave home and take an apartment in Greenwich Village. Gay refuses. Gay is strongly attracted to Stanley Baird, and on returning from luncheon one day finds a box of yellow roses on her desk, which she surmises have been sent by Stanley. Peggy Baird and her friend, Mimi Brooks, come to the office and on making an insulting request of Christine, are "put in their place" by Christine to the intense amusement of Stanley, who leaves the office with them. As Gay watches their departure, little chills creep around her heart.

Saturday with its half holiday comes, Gay and Christine have planned luncheon and a window shopping tour. However, they find Stanley Baird and Roger Pennington waiting in Stan's roadster. The girls are prevailed upon to go to luncheon with the young men. They motor to a roadhouse, and Stanley acknowledges that he had sent Gay the roses. Christine makes rapid headway in her seizure on Penny's affections, while Gay preserves a quiet calm that appeals to Stanley. On the way home Christine tells Gay that she has Stan "going" and advises her to "thaw" if she wants to win love.

Pennington comes to the office to work, but to Christine's chagrin she sees very little of him. Stanley waylays Gay and asks her to lunch with him, but she refuses. He is hurt and while Gay longs to comfort him, she feels she has taken the wiser course for "they never could be friends."

Meanwhile Christine progresses favorably in her friendship with Penny, also encouraging Ivor Barclay a lawyer and a client of Baird's. Gay invites Stan to a clambake at her home and he accepts. In the midst of a scene with Christine, regarding Penny, they are interrupted by the entrance of the "Lilac Lady" an exotic woman in whom Johnstone seems interested. Gay wonders if Stanley will ever become like his father.

CHAPTER 10

The clambake did not turn out quite as Gay had expected.

Unforeseen things happened. Jamie's twinkle at Stanley Baird, so young, so eager, begging to be shown the blooded Jersey; old Soerates, the ram.

"It's might kind of you to have me here, sir. I don't get a chance like this often."

"You like the farm, then? Ah, I'll take you around." Jamie beaming, won completely.

Stanley Baird, towering over Mary, asking for another doughnut, appraising her lemonade. Little Mary, pink with excitement, whispering to Gay, "Look at that, now! As nice a boy as you'd find anywhere!"

Pennington, less at ease, followed Christine about; they lagged behind when baskets were carried through the long lane to a dim clearing in Moorewoods and a fire was lighted under the stone grill.

Lounging on pine needles in the ruddy light, watching Mary's gaiety, listening to Jamie's old-fashioned jokes, to Stan's laughter, Gay kept telling herself, "I mustn't be so happy! This can't last; this is just an hour here in the woods; tomorrow it will be gone; he will be gone. I mustn't like him so much—I mustn't care!"

It was time to leave. Christine had slipped away with Penny. Jamie's brows beetled. Gay thought, "How like her!" and jumped up.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTUER?

Must I Continue To Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunate who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas, Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Christine's face was upturned for Roger's kiss. They drew apart when Gay spoke.

ran along the path.

She called back, "They've gone on," and hurried forward; stumbled upon them. Penny's arm was dark against her cousin's white dress; Christine's face was upturned for his kiss.

They drew apart when she spoke softly.

Stanley Baird came oftener now to his father's office. He would pause inside the door, face alight, looking at Gay. Now his attitude was changed a little; he was rather wistful, rather possessive as he asked about Mary and the "Big Fellow."

"Wonderful man, that Jamie. I know why you never stay in town for an evening. Gosh, I don't blame you. Only you might share a bit. Invite a friend, can't you?"

"Well, you must come again. Of course you must." But she would give no definite invitation.

One day his sister saw him leaning on the rail and raised her brows.

"Hey, Peg!" he hailed her. "and meet Miss Moore. She has a personal woods and a private lake!"

Miss Baird drawled "Really!" and her brows disappeared under her hat. Gay blushed and stammered and resented Stan's well-meant blunder. He'd never understand it, looked like; his friends and relatives would stare at her as if she were an outlandish creature. She must put an end to their friendship.

But the next Sunday, late in the afternoon, she saw him coming up the drive. Coming uninvited; raising his hat to Jamie.

"I did want to see Soerates again, sir!"

How Jamie roared; how gladly Mary welcomed him. How they liked him, the two who loved her so!

Supper on the veranda. Mary did that for her sake, to give the occasion a little party air. Afterward Christine stalked over a book and Gay wandered with Stanley to the rustic summer house, while the moon hung low above the trees, dropping a panel of gold in the lake.

"So beautiful, Gay! We'll have a lake and a summer moon. Always. Every year on this night we'll sit so—" his arm slipped around her. "And after a long, long time I'll kiss your hair—it will be all white then—like—like this, Gay—and I'll say, 'I love you more than ever; twice for each year that's gone.' And you'll say, 'I'm beginning to like you a bit."

Stan. And—

She tried to laugh, to pull away. "What are you talking about—" But he held her fast.

"You know, Gay. Don't you care a little, darlingest? Enough to give me a chance?" He touched her hair, drew his fingers down her face, pressed her hands against him. "Gay—tell me—I—oh, I love you so!"

Her eyes brimmed; he kissed them. Joy ran over her like a flood, sang in her veins; she felt suddenly full of beauty full of light.

"Stan—ah, yes—yes, I love you! I do love you—"

She drew his head down, laughing softly, waited for his lips. (To Be Continued)

FORT MORGAN WAS ONCE UNDER STATE

A Representative Is Asking Alabama To Purchase

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Fort Morgan, the purchase of which by the State of Alabama has been proposed in a bill introduced in the legislature at Montgomery last week by representative Rogers, of Mobile, was at one time under jurisdiction of the State, but for part of that time was reserved by the United States Government for military purposes.

This information was contained in information obtained by Mr. Rogers from Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war, concerning the property which the State can now purchase for $124,000.

The reservation, on Mobile point of Baldwin county, is at the eastern entrance to Mobile bay and 33 miles from the city of Mobile. The original reservation, containing 322 acres, was included in the cession by Spain under treaty of 1819 as part of western Florida. It was reserved by executive order for military purposes February 13, 1844, being part of the public domain.

Jurisdiction over the original reservation was ceded to the United States by act of the state legislature approved February 18, 1891.

Under decree of the district court of the United States for the southern district of Alabama rendered June 13, 1905, two tracts of land, aggregating 171.5 acres were added to the reservation. Jurisdiction over these two tracts was added by Governor's deed of May 21, 1906, under authority of the general act of cession. The total area of the entire reservation is 493.92 acres.

A long sea-wall entirely surrounding a portion of the reservation was built by the Government at a cost of over $2,000,000 and inside this were placed long range coast defense guns, only recently dismantled. A large number of buildings to house troops quartered at the post were also erected and are now in excellent state of repair.

EXTRA!—Congress Defended

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Rep. Theodore E. Burton, Republican of Ohio, who looks back on twenty-eight years of service in the national capital, has risen to the defense of Congress.

The men who make the nation's laws are far from perfect, but they do a pretty good job under great handicaps, he told International News Service in an interview.

"Criticism of Congress is often thoughtless and, generally speaking, is not justified, though I do not excuse the disposition of many congressmen to be swayed in their actions by pressure which is brought to bear upon them," he said.

"Sometimes this pressure is by purely selfish interests, sometimes it emanates from those who have superficial information and often times it comes from those who are really of the best intentions but are utterly impractical.

"There are countless groups and organizations which are constantly seeking to obtain something from the government which they ought not to have."

Some Yield To Dictation
Some members of Congress, in their eagerness for re-election, Burton admitted, take the easier road to security and yield to the dictation of others.

"The real quality of the members, however, is as high as it was twenty-five years ago," he said. "This despite a diminished interest in public affairs and more absorption in seeking material advantage, in sports and in that which is sensational."

Every citizen, he said, can render a real service by standing firm against invitations to join in efforts to force congressmen to take a course against their better judgment.

The veteran Ohio congressman has no faith in many proposed changes in the congressional system. Lengthening of terms, restricting or election of men outside the districts on the British plan of choosing members of the House of Commons, would not solve the

CONFERENCE SET ON FEBRUARY 11

Child Welfare Will Be Subject Heard At Meeting

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Fifth regional social service conference will be held here under the auspices of the State child welfare department on February 11. Dr. W. D. Partlow, who will preside at the conference announced.

On the program will be Dr. L. Bidgood, dean of the department of commerce and business administration at the University of Alabama, who will discuss the "State's responsibility to the Child." Dr. Bidgood is a member of the child welfare commission.

Miss Margaret Frierson, manager of the Tuscaloosa Hosiery mill, will discuss the question "Is the employed child an asset to the manufacturer?" Mrs. T. F. Adams, extension secretary of the child welfare department will talk on the Alabama child labor law; Mrs. J. H. Mealer, school attendance officer of Tuscaloosa county will talk on the relation of school attendance and child labor; Dr. A. A. Kirk, county health officer, will lead a discussion on the value of physician examination for children in industry, and Mrs. P. W. Blodheim, probation officer of Tuscaloosa county juvenile court will discuss the child labor law as a welfare measure.

problem, he said.

Education Best Remedy
"Education is the best remedy," Burton declared. "There is need for a more intellectual and more careful consideration of public questions in a fair, dispassionate manner."

Members of Congress, however, can help right things by a show of courage, he said, adding that the most successful legislators are those who have refused to bow to outside demands.

"The people admire courage, and for the most part when a man is known as standing by his convictions and seeking to promote the best interests of the country they stand by him," he said.

TODAY From the Daily of January 31, 1915.
12 Years Ago
January 31, 1915, falling on Sunday, there was no issue of the Daily of that date.

With a few dry days and no wind, the dirt on Second avenue will do away with the need for paving.

Devoting your interest to your cities may cause a loss of time at your place of business, but the public is going to respond to your business for your efforts.

Horatio Alger may have had many flights of fancy when he wrote books concerning the rise of obscure figures, yet if you will but look over the "Who's Who" list you need not be surprised to find that the majority started at the bottom of the pile with red, rather than blue blood, to send them up the ladder toward accomplishment.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW MONTH, NEW BUSINESS.

Today, January 1927, passed out of the picture, today the month's totals are made up, more than one business man will scratch his head and ask himself why he did not do a greater volume of business. Other business men will smile and silently feel an inward admiration for themselves and their employees. Both classes should begin to think new methods for new business, swap losses for gains, regardless of the condition prevailing. February can be made an excellent month, short though it may be. Won't you determine tonight to lay aside the old worn out methods of the years that have brought only a hand-to-mouth existence and plan new life and new blood for the old business? Take advantage of the sales opportunities, look upon reasonable cost as an investment rather than an expense, begin the new road in February so that in the succeeding months you may join the band of self admirers. We are talking consecutive newspaper advertising.

MORGAN COUNTIES SPEND MUCH VALUABLE TIME.

The cause for this lost time, resulting from the courthouse removal and anti-removal campaigns, does not fall to the door of Albany-Decatur, neither does it fall to the door of a vast majority of the county sections, the cause falls upon the shoulders of a handful of citizens, who, although they believe themselves in the right and doing a service for Hartselle, are in reality wasting much valuable time, hobbling Morgan county in her stride towards immediate success.

And it makes us wonder if these citizens who organized the removal effort really undertook to think the matter over in an actual civil light before they started their campaign? We wonder if they thought of the reflection upon the county as a whole to result from such a revolution of the ballot box?

The time was not opportune for launching such a plan, the time never has been and never will be opportune for launching such a plan and here is the reason why: Morgan county is not strong enough to withstand internal turmoil and citizens of Morgan county will never be strong enough to stand blows within her own defenses.

Why should we waste time quarreling over an industry we already have, why should there be any hard feelings among citizens who have but one purpose in view, that of making this the greatest county in the state? There is no cause great enough to kill the loyalty of Morgan counties for their own county, therefore they are allied to one another in a common purpose and such a thing as a courthouse should not come between sections in the least.

We have a recent object lesson to offer in the establishment of a great industry. The Connecticut Mills Company selected Albany-Decatur as the site for a giant plant, Hartselle applauded, the county applauded, in fact all of the state rang with applause for the successful efforts of Albany-Decatur. That mill indeed is a great industry and the location of the plant was expected by some to stir up strife, yet there was no strife. The people had seen the greater vision, they had learned the lesson of loyalty, it has become all for one, one for all. Albany-Decatur today is attempting to establish other industrial giants and after their establishment there will not be strife over the location. Albany-Decatur today would be pleased to aid Hartselle in locating industries if that neighboring city needed aid in such establishment, you see Albany-Decatur has seen that light of progress, Albany-Decatur has grown into the ways of the loyal, Albany-Decatur right now is attempting to do something for the rural sections which will do away with the annual cotton surplus causing low price. Albany-Decatur recognizes that what Morgan county needs is no trivial disturbance, but greater industries, more people, more consumers of farm goods, more schools, more homes, more people with the loyalty to Morgan county bred into their souls.

We are wasting time to talk of splitting hairs over a county courthouse location when the greater goal is in front of us. The courthouse is located to stay, that industry is already in the county, what we should turn our hands to is into bringing other industries of vast importance, that we might prosper from the capital from the outside, not sitting here thinking of plans for cutting each others throats.

ILLINOIS PLANS TO HAVE AN UNUSUAL PARTY.

Illinois, presenting always the unusual, is not deviating from that path. The state of Illinois has planned the hanging of six men on the morning of February 11, all sentenced to death for the killing of one man. Six gallows range alongside one another, grim reminders of the day not so far away when six lives will pay for one.

The United States will watch Illinois with interest, wondering at the effect, wondering if such methods will break the wholesale killing and gang warfare which has made Illinois notorious in the past few years.

People who are advocates of capital punishment can hardly face this ordeal of February 11, but Illinois seeks her own means to end the terrors of the age, terrors which have removed the state from the foremost ranks of the civilized, debased the name of the state and caused much advertising not desirable to a great state and a productive people.

Illinois, the unusual, will watch, the United States will watch, wondering at the effect, wondering if such methods will break crime.

McADOO TALKS OF THE EFFECTS OF PROHIBITION.

Several days ago William G. McAdoo assailed the nullificationists of the nation, declaring that if the United States ever is to see anarchy that these people will be the means for bringing such a view.

The Anniston Star has quite an interesting editorial concerning the McAdoo utterances, saying: "In the great speech that he delivered Friday before the Ohio State Bar Association, Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo has rendered an outstanding service in the fight to free the United States from the growing encroachments of the scoundrels. He has dealt with the legal aspects of prohibition in as scholarly a way as has Mr. Irving Fisher in his discussion of its economic aspects; or as did Mr. Hobson in his approach to the subject from a scientific angle. The outlaw baby has been placed securely on the doorsteps of the nullificationists and they must either adopt it or else disprove their responsibility. They stand accused before the bar of American public opinion and they are plainly on the defensive."

"Mr. McAdoo is eminently sound in his deduction that under the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Rhode Island vs. Palmer there is a solemn responsibility resting upon congress and the several states to provide the machinery with which to enforce the eighteenth amendment; that enforcement means effective enforcement, and that any measure adopted by congress or the several states less effective than the Volstead act would be in apparent contravention of the constitution of the United States."

"If the wine and beer advocates 'should succeed in securing such legislation,' Mr. McAdoo contends, 'and these wines and beers are permitted to contain an alcoholic content of such percentage that the Supreme Court cannot say as a matter of law that they are not intoxicating, then the court on the basis of its own language . . . must hold unconstitutional any legislation permitting them; for otherwise the legislation would permit that which the constitution prohibits, and this the Supreme Court says cannot be done.'"

"Indeed, under the ruling of the Supreme Court of the state of Wisconsin, in the case of Bull vs. Conroe, it is plainly deduced that if the Congress were to substitute for the Volstead act a wine and beer statute, 'they would have secured an unconstitutional statute whose unconstitutionality would cause the Volstead act to remain in full force and effect.' Moreover what applies to the congress in this respect will apply to the several states, for under the clause in the amendment giving them concurrent jurisdiction, they are vested with the same authority and bound by the same responsibility applicable to the parent government. Their responsibility is even greater, in fact, because of the larger number of enforcement officials at their command, which in the state of California, Mr. McAdoo says, has the ratio of one hundred to twenty thousand."

"In fine, states like New York and Montana, which have repealed their state enforcement acts, or like Maryland, which has refused to enact an enforcement law, are in open rebellion against the constitution of the United States. It devolves upon the president of the United States, therefore, to assume the sovereignty which they have surrendered and to prepare to enforce the organic law of the land, as did Andrew Jackson in his dealing with the nullificationists of 1833."

"This action on the part of such men as Governor Smith of New York and Governor Ritchie of Maryland, in assuming to enforce only such laws as meet with their personal approval or the approval of a large part of their constituency far transcends the mere question of the right or wrong of prohibition. It is a gesture that gives heart to criminals of all sorts and conditions, and Mr. McAdoo makes the pertinent point that it is in those states where the prohibition law is most openly flouted that the wave of lawlessness that is menacing American institutions is the most distressing. Nullification, therefore, becomes 'the slippery path that leads to anarchy. It is the negation of the principle of majority rule; it sets up that very tyranny of the minority which the opponents of prohibition assail so loudly.' Its ultimate effect will be to 'break down the very basis of obedience to law, operate as an incentive to crime and violence of every character, and lead ultimately to that collapse of law and self-government which, after a number of tragic generations of confusion and violence, will lead to the reestablishment, as it did in Rome, of despotic power as the only relief from bloodshed and confusion.'"

"And what is the avenue or escape from this dire calamity that threatens our nation? Certainly it is not to restore the sanction of legalized liquor, for the influences that attend the liquor traffic have been proved to be corrupt under any sort of regulation. 'The long hard road which lies before us and the long hard battle for which we must gird ourselves,' says Mr. McAdoo, 'is to break down the power of the corrupt political machines and rings which form the connecting link between crime and politics; and which, not content with holding so many of our large cities in their grip, are now insolently reaching out to control the politics of some of our great states, and even of the national government itself.'"

"Mr. McAdoo has not only delivered a most thought-provoking argument, a most logical analysis of our duties as citizens under the constitution; but he has sounded the tocsin of battle, and the moral, progressive element of the United States can find a no more valiant leader than the man who has just routed the forces of corruption and nullification in his own state of California, where the Wright enforcement act was vindicated by a 60,000 majority."

Buying at home has helped to build many cities, forming a bond among merchants and consumers not easily broken when greater proposals are presented. The merchant is willing then to come across with his cash, knowing that the loyalty of home people is worth the sacrifice.

BETTER PAY FOR

LEGISLATORS
No reasonable objection is likely to be offered to the bill of Representative Taylor Godwyn of Montgomery to increase the compensation of members of the Alabama Legislature. Legislators as a rule are timid about increasing their own pay, but the house of the Alabama Legislature has finally taken the bull by the horns and voted by a big majority for the Godwyn bill. It is to be hoped that the bill will be passed by the Senate.

The Godwyn bill contemplates an additional $4 a day for the expenses of each member. The compensation of members is now $4 out of which they must pay living expenses while in Montgomery.

Eight dollars a day surely is not too much for a legislator to receive.

A number of newspapers have expressed hearty approval of the Godwyn bill, among them the Selma Times-Journal, which says: "The Godwyn bill authorizing an appropriation of $4.00 a day to take care of the expenses of each member of the legislature is a timely measure and will no doubt, receive the approval of the people. This paper has advocated for a long time an increase in the compensation of members of the state legislature. The pitiful sum of $4.00 a day provided has been a by-word and a reproach on the state."

"With the enactment of the new provision the compensation will be increased to $8.00 a day. This amount is more in keeping with the dignity and importance of the work these men are commissioned to perform. It is a gross imposition to elect men to the legislature and not allow them sufficient remuneration to take care of their actual expenses while serving their constituents. The new scale of compensation ought to have the effect of making the legislative office more attractive and in improving the type of law maker which aspires to this branch of the public service."

Four dollars per day is an absurd compensation, and we do not believe that any considerable number of people will object to the addition of $4 for legitimate expenses. The legislature meets once every four years, except that occasionally it is called into extraordinary session. It transacts business of much importance to the state, and members attend the session at great inconvenience to themselves and in most instances they suffer financial losses which the people should not expect them to bear.—Montgomery Advertiser.

BUSINESS MEN OF TWIN CITIES PUSHING CANNING FACTORY PLANS

Albany-Decatur business men are going right ahead with their plans to establish a canning factory in the Twin Cities, according to the Albany-Decatur Daily, which says:

"There should be a good representation of citizens interested in this section at the meeting next Tuesday evening, when business men will discuss with farm experts the feasibility of establishment of a canning factory in Albany-Decatur."

"In past years, canning factory plans have been advanced from time to time, but never have reached the stage of culmination. In those years there was not the same degree of cooperation between town and county that exists today, and at not time have prospects been any brighter for the success of such a plant, once established, than they are at present."

"County Agent Ford, at the behest of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been engaged for some two weeks collecting information relating to the production feature of the plant. If the farmers of Morgan county desire a plant to the extent that they are willing to provide it with the necessary ingredients, such an institution should prove a great contributing factor in the development of this county and of Albany-Decatur."

"The savings of the many thousands of dollars to Morgan county, which now find their way to outside points for canned produce, would help the condition of many farmers who now find themselves pressed frequently for ready cash."

The fact that the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the Twin Cities and the county farm agent of Morgan county are actively at work in behalf of the new industry is proof that not only are the business men interested in the project but that the agricultural interests also realize the advantages that will accrue to farming from the operation of a cannery.

Calhoun county, and in fact many North Alabama counties, could have canning factories to the advantage of the farming interests, for they provide an outlet for farm products that ordinarily are not easily or profitably sold in other ways.—Anniston Star.

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

IT WON'T surprise you to hear that Europe considers this misguided country responsible for the troubles in China. It is discovered that American missionaries have talked too much to the Chinese about liberty, the right to govern yourself, etc. China decides to adopt our ideas of freedom, without adopting our ideas of Christianity, and once more it is Uncle Sam's fault.

ON MARCH 4 the State of New York will put to death in the electric chair a blind man named H. W. Cowan. He killed a woman and the state will kill him.

An artist with imagination could make a striking picture of a blind man groping his way to the death chair and going out of it in a flash of artificial lighting. Will his eyes be opened in another world after the current is turned on, or will his blindness become eternal? That is the interesting question.

Scientists, studying what is left over after the electric chair has done its work, say that even the dead body of a murderer may be of use. Every body that has come from the electric chair has been examined by the surgeons. And thanks to the new fangled way of killing, doctors know more than they could possibly have learned otherwise about the effect of electric shocks on the body, and how to overcome them. Adrenelin, for instance, is the worst possible restorative, although often used.

YOU MAY not have noticed it, but the cost of living is dropping. Throughout the nation during 1926 the average drop was 1.3 per cent. In some places life's cost increased. In Boston, for instance, it went up 1.5 per cent. The biggest drop 2.9 per cent occurred at Los Angeles.

GREAT BRITAIN finds herself a borrowing nation, something that hasn't happened before in modern history except during war. Ordinarily the British, every year, have hundreds of millions for foreign investment. They owned our choicest railroad stocks, and other securities in 1924. We bought them back at bargain prices. Now the British Board of Trade shows a deficit of $60,000,000 for the year ended.

However, the British, as they put it, "muddle through." They have the courage to pay their debts and tax themselves, and will come to the top again.

THOSE whose un-American race prejudice takes the form of anti-Semitism might ask themselves what would happen to business if Jewish business men were suddenly eliminated. Innumerable great retail establishments would cease to exist. Manufacturers would find outlets cut down by more than half; hundreds of thousands of non-Jewish workers would be idle.

THIS WEEK, in New York, Joseph P. Day sold at auction for $6,714,000 some properties belonging to the late Commodore Charles A. Gould. One piece on Fifth avenue sold for $432 a square foot—a new record.

THE New York Times reports the presence at the sale of fourteen of the best known real estate men. And twelve of the fourteen are Jews. What would happen to real estate development if those twelve disappeared, leaving only two?

SENATOR BORAH sees in China "a great people after years of turmoil, strife and oppression by outside powers, coming into their own." The senator says "the nationalistic spirit is uniting those Chinese people." He wants this country to leave them alone, while they become great.

SENATOR BORAH displays spirit worthy of Patrick Henry, La Fayette and Thomas Jefferson. However, the Chinese, speaking forty different languages, can't talk to each other. A great majority of them are natural born pacifists, thinking it hardly worth while to fight.

Senator Borah's great grand children will be old before China changes from age-old stagnation to vigorous nationality.

INDIANA decides against making prize fights legal. Politicians in that state or those that control the politicians must be different from the brand of politicians in New York, Illinois and some other state.

Brutality is willing to pay well for its prize fight pleasures. There is a big profit in such exhibitions. And there is of course a "split three ways," a big piece for the politicians, a big piece for the promoter, a little piece for the prize fighters.

FUNDAMENTALISTS devoted to the theory that men and monkeys are not distant cousins, that Jonah lived in the whale's stomach without being digested and that Joshua prolonged the day by stopping the sun in its journey around the earth are asked to prove their sincerity.

How? By contributing five million dollars to build an anti-evolution school in memory of William Jennings Bryan at Dayton, Tennessee. Earnest fundamentalists will solicit funds for the fundamental memorial and will be paid for their trouble.

HARTFORD, Conn. — (INS)—

Connecticut's motor vehicle department found itself possessed of $3,924.89 in bad checks when the rush for auto licenses cleared up early this year. As a result of this situation the state's income was increased by upward of $1,000. A state law makes a charge of five dollars extra upon the person issuing the check, the law having been passed when the check situation was first discovered. The person issuing the check to pay for his license is ordered to produce a certified check, money order, or cash within eight days if the check is bad. According to department officials they are across even with the five-dollar bonus, and the protest fee for the bank, likewise.

Down in Fairfield county, Charles F. Evans has set a new record by his thirty-eight consecutive annual election as librarian of the county's law library. Mr. Evans was first elected in 1888 and has had no opposition yet. He presides over some 17,000 law books adequately housed in Bridgeport's county building where lawyers find all sorts of material for use in preparing their cases.

Trinity College, Hartford's leading educational institution, is receiving much attention from the public on Tuesday evenings as various of her professors hold radio debates. Sincere and policies are the chief topics of discussion. The debates are held in the Travelers Insurance Co. laboratories here and sent out over WTIC now the chief station in Connecticut.

From the suburban town of Manchester a copy of the Centennial history is going to Manchester, England, "with the assurance of our friendship and goodwill," according to the volume's history, E. L. G. Hohenthal, secretary of the International Reform Federation, is carrying the volume. After he delivers the gift Mr. Hohenthal is to lecture throughout Europe on prohibition.

Mr. Hohenthal is slated to speak in Italy, Austria, Hungary, Germany, Switzerland, and Czechoslovakia before starting home late in April.

JIM REED IS GAINING STRENGTH

The Albany-Decatur Daily is of the opinion that Jim Reed might be the Democratic standard bearer in 1928. That paper points out that the average McAdoo man thinks the awfulest thing imaginable would be the nomination of Al Smith, and that Reed followers are taking advantage of this to inform them that Reed is the man to beat Smith. The Daily says:

Reed is an avowed vet, as is Smith. Reed is an avowed opponent of "religious intolerance" which spirit is expected to place him on friendly terms with the Smith camp. If Smith cannot be nominated, the Recently there was an article in the Baltimore Evening Sun by W. G. Cluston, a newspaperman of Topeka, Kan., in which he stated that Kansas was swinging away from the idiocies which have made her famous, and that there is unmistakable signs of an overwhelming Reed sentiment in that State. This writer asserted that there is an awakening on the part of the people to the realization that if honesty is to survive as a virtue the time has come when men must be put in high places, that it is high time we quit hooting men who have the courage of their convictions while elevating to the places of power the howling hypocrites who have neither courage nor convictions.

The campaigns of 1928 will prove to be the most interesting in many a year.—Dothan Eagle.

A Poor Substitute

By Fanny Darrell

THE world envied her as it passed her by for was she not the petted daughter of a very rich man and a favorite member of that society which has its picture in the rotogravure sections of the Sunday papers? Were not her stables full of the best thoroughbreds, her garages filled with the latest sports models, and her jewel box simply running over? Yes, the world envied her and never knew what a poor unhappy creature she really was. She owned diamonds more brilliant than the noonday sun, rubies as inviting as a woman's lips, emeralds that gleamed like a dew-kissed English field, sapphires, opals—she had them all. But what a poor substitute a precious stone is for that much more precious thing—Love. She was willing to give everything for the Little Tyrant but he only smiled at her through the window, and passed her by.

Episcopal church. Mrs. Pickering was the only attendant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Skillington of this city and her brother is Thomas J. Skillington. She received her education at Albany High school in Alabama and at Chattanooga High school.

Mr. Mabee is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Charles Mabee of Mitchell avenue. His sister is Miss Louise Mabee. He received his education at St. Andrews and at the University of the South, Sewanee.

News of the wedding will be of much interest and will come as a complete surprise to many friends, as no previous announcement has been made.

Paris Style Hint

BY ALICE LANGEIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—"Bridge frocks are an American inspiration," say Lady Edgerton, one of Paris' leading designers, "and they will certainly be a best seller this season and everyone to follow."

When Lady Edgerton went to America, and particularly to California, she found every woman playing bridge, at least a part of nearly every afternoon, and not only that, she found that an afternoon bridge affair really means a whole evening in the same frock, for one rarely has time to change. This gave her the idea of the bridge frock to fill two needs.

It is not a transformation frock, but one which will be admired before five o'clock as well as after eight. This means something "recherche," as the French say, that is something with original touches of decoration, exquisite embroidery, set-ins of lace in unusual manner and above all made of diaphanous material like fine crepe georgette or chiffon with a little more consistency than the old variety.

Lady Edgerton is also using a crepe de Chine to make one of these charming bridge frocks which has a drape giving a delightful side movement. No sleeves make it quite correct for any evening affair.

Another comes in rose crepe with fine tucks and ruffles flaring from the side of the sleeves. Anna has a green chiffon bridge frock which rises to normal at the waistline in front and is unique because of its tight sleeves.

PARIS.—"Almonds Mollere" are good sweets that are easy to make. Select fine large Malaga raisins and remove the seeds. Into the opening introduce almond paste colored with pistache.

A simple recipe for the almond paste calls for an equal quantity of the almonds and crushed pistache nuts, mixed with the white of an egg and enough powdered sugar to make a consistent paste. This paste can be used for filling all fruits.

PARIS.—For "Rice a la Californienne" soak one-half a pound of dry California apricots in a little water the night before.

Cook as much rice as needed in milk, sweeten and add a little grated orange rind. Let cool, then mix with a pint of whipped cream slightly sweetened and perfumed with orange.

Put into a dish and surround with ice. Cool for an hour. Cover with halved apricots and serve at once.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie.

I am a girl of 17, and have a girl friend of whom I am very fond. We were brought up together. Now I am going with a young man whom my girl friend does not like. She does not want me to go with him.

I think too much of both to give either up. Please advise me how to keep both friends.

BROKEN-HEARTED BROWN

EYES: If you handle the situation with tact there is no reason why you should sacrifice either friendship.

It is not infrequently happens that either of two girls who have been lifelong friends becomes jealous when the other becomes interested in a young man. Apparently that has happened in your case. I doubt that your girl friend has any specific objection to the young man who interests you. No doubt she feels that he is engrossing much of the attention and time that you used to give to her.

Warns Marines Soon Must Fire

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Dr. Sacasa, head of the liberal government, today declared that if the United States marines did not suspend hostilities against the liberals, the time would come when the marines would have to open fire against the liberals and kill hundreds of Nicaraguan citizens to support Diaz, as in 1912. General Diaz heads the conservative government at Managua, which has been recognized by the United States.

Four Miners Die In Mine Blast

ILSEY, Ky., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Four miners were killed in an explosion in the mine of the Ilsey Coal company here today. All the bodies were recovered. The explosion occurred early this morning, when the electric current was turned on, preparatory to the day's work and an electric spark probably ignited a gas pocket, officials say.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, (adv.)

Missouri Student Earns Cash By Selling "Ladder Rights" At Dances

COLUMBIA, Mo., (INS)—The University of Missouri has found its most enterprising capitalist.

He lacked five cents of having enough to admit him to a student dance, but he had fifteen cents more than enough to rent a ladder. He rented the ladder.

The dance was on the second floor and the free avenues were nil, despite the great demand. He found and then started his advertising campaign. His price was two bits per climb.

Before student authorities could account for the unusually large crowd the enterprise had cleared more than ten dollars.

Sybil Bauer Is Unable To Beat Off Claims Of Death

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Sybil Bauer, 23-year-old holder of all world's backstroke swimming records, in the women's class, died at a hospital here today, following an illness that developed last winter.

Miss Bauer had been in the hospital 92 days, critically ill, but news of her death came as a shock as recent reports had noted an improvement in her condition. Miss Bauer held 23 world's backstroke records in all distances from the 100 meter to the quarter mile event. Her victories included the 1924 Olympic games backstroke championship.

Despite her illness, Miss Bauer had gone forward with plans for her wedding in June to Edward Sullivan, a New York newspaper man.

Your Income Tax

NO. 13

To the taxpayer whose gross or net income for 1926 was $5,000 or less, and was derived chiefly from salary or wages, the problem of correctly making out an income-tax return is not difficult. Such returns are made on Form 1040A, a single sheet. Persons, any part of whose net income, regardless of amount, was derived from a business or profession, including farming, are required to use the larger form, 1040.

The gross income of the usual business consists of the gross profits on sales, plus any income from investments and incidental or outside operations or sources. The return must show the gross sales, purchases, and cost of goods sold. To reflect net income correctly, inventories are necessary at the beginning and end of each taxable year.

The lawyer, doctor, architect, author, dentist, clergyman, or other professional man must, in gross income, include all fees, salaries, and compensation for professional services.

The farmer is required to report as gross income all profits derived from the sale or exchange of farm products and livestock, whether produced on the farm or purchased and resold. The fair market value of merchandise or groceries exchanged for farm products must be included; also profits from renting a farm on the crop-sharing basis and the rental and sale of farm lands.

Plain Facts About Investments

STOCK PRICES AND STOCK VALUES

By W. S. COUSINS, International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK.—There have been a number of sharp advances in prices of industrial and railroad stocks since the turn of the year, while other stocks in these groups have declined sharply in response to speculative selling and liquidation of investment holdings.

Sound values and earning power are the only factors worth considering in formulating an estimate of the real values of industrial stocks for investment purposes. Many stocks at times sell "out of line" with intrinsic values and here is where the genius and shrewdness of the bargain-hunter shows itself to advantage. By buying the stocks which speculators throw overboard, the bargain-hunter quite often reaps a golden harvest.

Some timidity is in evidence in the financial district today, and a wholesale fear of acquiring stocks at the current price level, because of the fact that in February-March of the last two years there was a violent decline or "shake out" in speculative stocks. If another shake-out occurs this year in February or in March, it will not be because of what happened last year or two years ago, but because of the top-heavy speculative position that exists now, or at the time the decline is ushered in.

A good many people point the warning finger at the current scale of industrial stock prices, and with fear and trepidation remind us that average and individual prices are the highest in all time. But that is as it should be, for the properties behind them are more valuable, by any and every standard of measurement, than at any other time in American history.

That assertion fails to consider two important factors: first, that many stocks are pushed forward undervalued, under the cover of strength in the market as a whole, and therefore occupy a false position in the valuation lists; second, that the good stocks drop with all other varieties in a period of speculative squalls, and no one has been willing to accept the responsibility of keeping stock prices always in the proper relation to their real values. Like the wind and the tide, stock values are subject to a multiplicity of factors which precludes the possibility of their standing still, for even as much as a day at one time.

Real students of stock values set a price at which they are willing to buy certain stocks and refuse to budge from their position, unless, of course, new developments in the corporations behind the issues justify a new standard of valuation. They will not become stampeded into a "flyer" just because a stock is advancing by leaps and bounds; in fact, they regard this as an unfavorable rather than a favorable factor unless justified by new developments which were formerly unknown to the speculative community.

They do not buy on a thin margin or a wide one either. After purchasing their stock, they may pledge it at the bank for a loan, buying more shares with the proceeds of the loan. This should only be done when stocks are selling at bargain prices, which evidently they are not, at the present time.

Peaches Evades Crowds

Mounted Police Have a "Snap" Compared To U. S. Border Patrol

Mexican Frontier Is The Homeland Of Thousands Of 'Bad' Men Who Prowl Into U. S. Lines.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(INS)—Not yet discovered by the poets, novelists and motion picture directors who specialize in "thrill" episodes, the Border Patrol of the United States Immigration Service plods "the even tenor" of its way.

Canada's noted Northwest Mounted Police, famed in song and story, and to whom the motion picture industry has added a glamor of romance that probably seldom falls to any similar force, apparently have a "soft snap" when one considers the multifarious duties of a member of the Border Patrol.

About the most hazardous duties of the Canadian force is the suppression of smuggling along the United States border, rendered a little more difficult, perhaps, since the passage of the eighteenth amendment to the United States Constitution. They do not have to fear anything from the frozen North.

Not as the Border Patrol of the United States Immigration Service.

That vast hinterland that sweeps along the Rio Grande from the Gulf of Mexico to the New Mexico line must be guarded against the surreptitious entry of undesirable aliens; banditry must be suppressed, and along this particular stretch of frontier, banditry seems to be the favorite occupation of hundreds in the "bad lands."

Gun-running is a profitable source of income to many, who reap a rich harvest from the smuggling of arms and ammunition into the strife-torn republic south of the Rio Grande. And, the gentlemen who engage in this hazardous profession along the border have very few, if any, scruples about using a rifle or a six gun. Long practice has made them very proficient in the use of these arms. They shoot with accuracy, neatness and dispatch down here. The Border Patrolmen are said to be equally effective with both the six gun and the rifle.

In addition to many other attributes, the Border Patrolman must be considerable of a diplomat, since many occasions arise in our intercourse with the temperamental brethren of the southern republic which call for a degree of diplomacy that can at least compare favorably with that shown by regularly accredited members of that profession.

Most Effective
W. A. Whalen, district immigration inspector director, with headquarters in San Antonio, is emphatic in his declaration that the Border Patrol, although only two years old, is the most effective law enforcement organization of its kind in the world. Its members he said, have to be "as nearly perfect physical specimens of manhood as can be found."

The director says the Border Patrol "must be versed in immigration laws. They must be able to ride, shoot, and work single-handed—at times in the wildest of country. They must be diplomatic, and possess the instincts of a good detective. They must have good habits and stamina to withstand the rigors of border life."

During the past year, according to Whalen, the Border Patrol apprehended 5,379 persons who were endeavoring to enter the United States in violation of the immigration law. They caught 388 persons charged with violation of the customs laws. For prohibition and narcotic authorities, they arrested 83; for department of justice agents, 106; for miscellaneous government departments, 233; and for state and municipal officers, 152. In addition to this the Patrol seized more than $250,000 worth of contraband goods.

JUNIOR CHAMBER IS ATHENS PLAN

W. C. Wood Chosen
To Head The New
Civic Body

By D. L. ROSENAU

A junior chamber of commerce was organized at the courthouse in Athens Friday night at a special called meeting sponsored by W. C. Wood, local attorney, and Fred Wall, local jeweler. Membership is to be open to all business and professional men under 45 years of age, and the organization through its younger blood is planning to make Athens attractive to prospective industries. W. C. Wood was elected president for the first year, and P. W. Hendricks, secretary and treasurer. An advisory board was appointed consisting of Fred Wall, Ed Goodrich, and W. F. Sanders, Jr. By-laws and a constitution will be adopted at the meeting, Thursday night.

Big Still Captured—

A large 120 gallon still complete for operation was found by the sheriff's force, consisting of J. E. Clem, V. B. Gilbert, and Bernard Arnett, near Harris' station in the southern part of the county Friday night near midnight. Also ten barrels of fermented beer and ten gallons of whiskey were destroyed. Two negroes, Will Harris and Walter Street, were arrested nearby and are charged with violating the prohibition laws. The raid was made under severe difficulty, the officers having to wade knee deep through swamps. In addition to the local force, V. B. Roof and H. D. Garrett of the Federal agents were in the raiding

HARTSELLE WATER PATRONS SERVED

Fire Apparatus To Be Bought For Protection

By J. A. WEST

The water mains recently planted here have been filled and water patrons are being served with city water. The entire plant is declared to be of the best material obtainable, erected in its entirety by a competent superintendent, who declares the supply now available will do the city for many years to come.

One of the latest types of clorinator has been purchased by the city, complying with all the requirements of the state boards of health.

The city has placed an order for 1,000 feet of fire hose, and now has under consideration the purchase of a chemical fire fighting truck, for further protection against fire.

The fire hydrants stationed at strategic points over the city have been tested, the pressure and other requirements of such utilities being all that could be expected.

Many citizens are having plumbing done in their homes, now that water is certain.

L. G. Guley is at Sheffield this week, having started another cedar mill at that point Monday, and will continue operations at that point for an indefinite period.

Dr. E. R. Carrier, well-known layman of this city, delivered a three-minute missionary speech at the Methodist church last Sunday morning, just preceding the missionary sermon by Rev. Frank T. Nabors.

Walter J. Nesbit of Decatur spent Saturday here on business.

Weather conditions in this section have been the worst imaginable for the past three weeks, putting a stop to all farm operations, and causing the country roads to become almost impassable again. Much activity is thereby stopped in the field of industry over this section, as it is practically impossible to do much hauling or transporting much produce to market.

Frank P. Lide of Decatur, Ala., has acquired the gas and oil business of the Pan-American company at this point, and is having the service station formerly operated by Ford Bros. greatly improved. He took charge last week.

M. B. Brown is having a garage and service station erected on the corner at Puryear and Thompson's party.

Bee Line South Impassable—

The Bee Line Highway to the south of Athens is said to be impassable at the present time, the recent continuous rains having made the river bottom country near Decatur in such muddy condition that traffic is nearly impossible. Chamber's No. 7 Bus Line has discontinued bus traffic temporarily.

shop, using a portion of the building fitted up suitably to meet his needs for a business of the character.

Rev. Frank T. Nabors, missionary secretary of the North Alabama Conference delivered a stirring appeal last Sunday morning to a large congregation at the First Methodist church to support whole-hearted the missionary program of the church. His sermon throughout was eloquent and timely, and his illustrations were very pointed.

A Sunday school institute was held at the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30. A splendid program was rendered which held the attention of the audience throughout.
